public, and in showing them to be the best in the world, and openly and publicly challenge machines of any and all manufacturers to do as large a range of work as can easily be done on one of these machines. They

and have all the advantage of a reversible feed motion,
which carries the work either way, which, together

DAILY GAZETTE.

The following are some of the most remarkable cases of rapid marches on military record:
Roman infantry marched frequently a
distance of twenty miles in five hours, each
soldier carrying from fifty to eighty pounds of baggage. Caesar's legions marched four hundred and fifty leagues in twenty-three days. In 1800 McDonald marched forty miles in a single day, crossing rivers and climbing mountains. Clauel, after most extraordinary efforts at the battle of Salvamanca, retreated forty miles in twelve hours. In 1814 Napoleon marched his army, for the purpose of succoring Paris,
seventy-five miles in thirty-six hours. Gen.
Crawford, in Spain, marched three thousand men sixty-two miles in twenty-six hours. In 1803 Wellington's cavalry in India marched sixty miles in thirty-two hours. Before the battle of Tuerkabad,
in India, the English cavalry, under Lord
Lake, are said to have marched seventy
miles in twenty-four hours.

AN OLD DEMOCRAT ON THE CASE OF THE TOMES.—Daniel S. Dickinson said, in a speech at the Cooper Institute, New York,
on Wednesday night:
Constitution, law, freedom of speech, liberty of the press, usurpation, tyranny, &c., are words easily paraded, and even parrots
can be taught them. But men should
know that the instincts of a government,
as of an individual, when assaulted, are self-
defence. [Applause.] The father and
proprietor of a dependent family who should
fail to employ all his energies when assailed
by a murderer or bandit, and instead there-
of proceed to recite from the law books,
would, if slain, rank with suicides in the sight of God and man; and a chief magistrate who should fail to protect his government against foreign or domestic foes, armed and unarmed—whether avowed or silent—whether wielding openly the implements of death, or insidiously acting as the advocate and apologist of rebellion, would
himself be guilty of treason, and would de-
serve impeachment, conviction and execution. [Great applause.]

A GOOD JOKE ON THE REMNANT.—When
Gen. Sill's division left Frankfort, the last thing they did was to remove the two manner cannon from their position on the hills
over South Frankfort. Some Union men
of Frankfort, during the night, went over
to the spot and planted two empty beer
kegs in place of the cannon, and covered
them with a tarpaulin. All next day a lot of Morgan's cavalry were scouting around
the kegs, but dared not enter Frankfort for fear of being charged upon. On Wednesday night "our forces" abandoned the kegs
when, as we learn, they made a bold and
daring charge on the "tarpaulin beer keg battery," and captured it without the loss of a man. The captain acknowledged that he had been "sold by the Yanks," and it
was not until then that they were aware of the fact that Gen. Sill's whole corps had left Frankfort. Then, as they have always done, they pounced upon an unprotected city. But then, Dumont's forces soon let them know that it was not the "battle of
the kegs" when he attacked them. It was the man and the two empty beer kegs
that kept the rebels from burning all the bridges around Frankfort.—Louisville Democrat.

THE CAPITOL DOME.—This majestic structure is slowly yet steadily rising, as ton after ton of massive iron plates and ribs are
hoisted into place and securely bolted together. By next summer the dome and all
its surrounding lantern will be completed,
and crowned with Crawford's colossal statue
of "Freedom," a fine engraving of which occupies the left-hand side of the $3 tensure notes.

The Ayr Advertiser announces the death of Mr. John Lanchelin, at the advanced age of 85 years. Deceased's father is generally believed to have been the original Souter Johnny, immortalized by Burns in his "Tam
o' Shanter."

DAILY GAZETTE.

The following are some of the most remarkable cases of rapid marches on military record:
Roman infantry marched frequently a
distance of twenty miles in five hours, each soldier carrying from fifty to eighty pounds of baggage. Caesar's legions marched four hundred and fifty leagues in twenty-three
days. In 1800 McDonald marched forty
miles in a single day, crossing rivers and climbing mountains. Cleared after most extraordinary efforts at the battle of Sala-
manca, retreated forty miles in twelve
hours. In 1814 Napoleon marched his army, for the purpose of securing Paris,
seventy-five miles in thirty-six hours. Gen.
Crawford, in Spain, marched three thousand men sixty-two miles in twenty-six
hours. In 1803 Wellington's cavalry in India marched sixty miles in thirty-two hours. Before the battle of Tarrakabad,
in India, the English cavalry, under Lord Laloe, are said to have marched seventy
miles in twenty-four hours.

AN OLD DEMOCRAT ON THE CANE OF THE TORIES.—Daniel S. Dickinson said, in a speech at the Cooper Institute, New York,
on Wednesday night:
Constitution, law, freedom of speech, liberty of the press, usurpation, tyranny, &c., are words easily prated, and even parrots
can be taught them. But men should
know that the instincts of a government,
as of an individual, when assaulted, are self-
defence. [Applause.] The father and
proprietor of a dependent family who should
fail to employ all his energies when assailed
by a murderer or bandit, and instead there-
of proceed to recite from the law books,
would, it is said, rank with suicides in the sight of God and man; and a chief magistrate against foreign or domestic foes,
armed and unarmed, who is slow or silent—
whether yielding openly the implements of death, or insidiously acting as the
advocate and apologist of rebellion, would
himself be guilty of treason, and would de-
serve impeachment, conviction and execution. [Great applause.]

A GOOD JOKE ON THE REBELS.—When
Gen. Smith's division left Frankfort, the last thing they did was to remove the cannon
cannon from their position on the hills
over South Frankfort. Some Union men
of Frankfort, during the night, went over
to the spot and placed two empty beer
kegs in place of the cannon, and covered
them with a tarpaulin. All next day a lot
of Morgan's cavalry were scouting around
the kegs, but dared not enter Frankfort for
fear of being charged upon. On Wednes-
day night "our forces" abandoned the kegs
when, as we learn, they made a bold and daring charge on the rebels, who, being battered and captured, it without the loss of a man. The captain acknowledged that
he had been "sold by the Yanks," and it
was not until then that they were aware of the fact that Gen. Smith's whole corps had left Frankfort. Then, as they have always done, they proceeded upon an unprotected city. But Gen. Dumont's forces soon let them know that it was not the "battle of
the kegs" when he attacked them. It was
these men and the two empty beer kegs
that kept the rebels from burning all the
bridges around Frankfort. —Louisville Democrat.

THE CAPITOL DOME.—This majestic structure is slowly but steadily rising, as ton after ton of massive iron plates and ribs are
hoisted into place and securely bolted together. By next summer the dome and all
its surrounding lantern will be completed,
and crowned with Crawford's colossal statue
of "Freedom," a fine carving of which occupies the left-hand side of the $5 treasury notes.

Gen. Prentiss' Speech.

The reader will not fail to notice the telegraphic report of the speech of General Prentiss, who has just returned from a southern prison. The barbarity of the rebels towards our prisoners is true. There can be no further doubt on the subject. What our government can do to prevent it in the future, it is impossible to conjecture. Retaliation we are hardly prepared to recommend, but it will come to that if the rebels continue their atrocities upon defenseless prisoners. Gen. Prentiss and his fellow sufferers are ready for it now, and avow their intention to avenge the wrongs inflicted upon them.

The power of the rebels, he says, is greater than we think. But it is principally in the vigor of desperation. We must match them with a corresponding earnestness. We must conquer them or they will conquer us. What folly, then, to stop to argue the constitutionality of the methods we adopt. We have no time for that, but every energy should be put forth to subdue our insane foe. When they are thoroughly whipped they will submit; and we shall have peace. Death to the leaders, every one of them, and after the war we will talk of amnesty to the multitude.

The testimony of Gen. Prentiss in favor of the President's emancipation proclamation is pointed and valuable. It is better than all the battles we can fight, he says, and he should know, as he has just been among the enemy, and has seen what effect it has had upon them. They cannot be more united and determined than they were, and we should, therefore, not scruple to use any means to conquer them. What folly is it, therefore, for a party to raise a factious and unreasoning opposition to a means designed to cripple the enemy, which according to all testimony will effect its object? Let those who are opposing the President in this matter ask themselves, in all candor, if it is loyal to do so.

LIEUT. COL. BRAGG.—Capt. Ely, of the second regiment, who is now at home on furlough, on account of a wound in the arm, speaks highly of Col. Bragg, of the first regiment. He says that at the battle of Antietam, after he, Capt. Ely, was wounded, and while lying against a straw stack, at one of the field hospitals, Dr. McNulty, division surgeon, came up. The captain having heard that Col. Bragg was mortally wounded, enquired of the doctor how he was. Dr. McNulty answered, "No, he is not mortally wounded. I dressed his wound shortly after he was hurt, and severe as it was he went at once back to the field."

This shows true courage, and an entire absence of thought for himself. Most officers would have taken the really valid excuse of a severe wound to have left the field. But this is not Col. Bragg's style.

Connecticut drafted men are in New York city looking after substitutes, for whom they offer great prices, some as high as three hundred dollars for the nine months.

EDITORS GAZETTE:—On the morning of the 1st of October we left our camp at Jancinto and marched for Corinth, camping that night at Clear Creek. The next day we moved about two miles, turning off from the Corinth road and going a short distance towards Farmington, where we stopped for the night. Early the next morning we were up and off for Corinth, not knowing what was to be done on our arrival at that place. But we soon found out, for a short time after placing our battery in position on a hill to the right of the town, the firing of skirmishers was heard about a mile to our front. We kept our position till about nine o'clock, when we started forward, and after traveling half a mile due north, planted our guns behind some old entrenchments, thrown up in former days. After laying here a short time, listening to sharp firing going on in the front, we limbered up again, and moved to a new position further to the left. Cannonading now commenced on both sides, and several shells and balls from the enemy's guns struck near us, doing no damage. We waited here a long while, changing position several times, and expecting every minute to open fire; but in this we were disappointed—the heavy siege guns at Corinth doing the shelling on our side. Sharp infantry fighting was going on all this while, with much success we were ignorant, as we had no view of the combatants. About an hour before sundown we received new orders and moved to a double-quick a quarter of a mile towards Corinth. Here, about dark, we fired two shells, but received no reply from the enemy. The fighting for the day had closed, night set in, and we went back to our former position in Corinth, and laid down at our posts to catch a little sleep before renewing the conflict on the morrow. At 12 o'clock that night we were ordered to move again. We did not much like the idea of starting off at that time of night, as we were tired enough to sleep, but it afterwards proved a good thing for us. However, we did not go far, only about fifty rods back to another elevation, a splendid position for a battery, while the 6th Wisconsin battery took the position vacated by us, and the 11th Ohio were stationed on their right.

The morn was ushered in by the booming of cannon. The rebels had commenced the battle early—they were shelling this city, and our siege guns and mortars were answering them. You can imagine that we were wide awake about this time—sleep had lost its charms. The heavy booming of cannon, the shrieking of shells as they flew over us, and the wild confusion of the negro population and soldiers fleeing out of the city to the corral, presented rather a lively scene to us new recruits. This position, which was the one we occupied during the fight, was on a considerable elevation in the northern part of the town. On our right was a battery of regulars, and several regiments of infantry, while in our front and rear was stationed more infantry. The 10th Missouri was our support, and lay on our left. As I have said before, our position was an excellent one—there was a gradual slope from the top of the hill of 50 or 60 rods, and then an abrupt descent forming a valley through which the rebels must pass before entering the town. The fighting ahead came nearer and nearer; it was evident that our troops were falling back. Soon the artillery and infantry directly in front of us began to fire, and we stood anxiously by our guns awaiting the command to commence firing. We had not long to wait—our men were retreating over the hill in front, and the rebels were rapidly following, and soon appeared swarming over the breastworks and around the guns of the 6th Wisconsin battery, which our men were obliged to abandon as they had not time to bring them off. The 11th Ohio battery got off safely with their guns and took position on our right. Our battery had now opened fire, and was pouring shot, shell and canister into the advancing columns of the enemy. But still they came on—our position was becoming desperate; the infantry in front had given way, and was retreating in wild confusion, while the rebels were following up their advantage with fierce shouts. But they came to death—a perfect storm of lead and iron greeted them. Our support, the 10th Missouri, fought nobly, never giving an inch, while the broken ranks of retreating troops rushed through and over them. The rebels came up to within 20 or 30 rods of where we stood, when the flying columns of our infantry rallied, advanced and charged upon the almost victorious enemy, who halted for a moment, then turned and fled, leaving their dead and wounded behind. When once they started on the retreat they ran like frightened sheep, and at last accounts were still running.

When the firing ceased, the anxious inquiry among the battery boys was—"is any one of our boys hurt?" We soon received the gratifying assurance that we was well—not a man had been injured. Not so with the rebel foe who had dared to advance in the face of our murderous fire; they ghastly dead lay in piles before us. We had done our share of the killing that day.

We were ready at our posts the remainder of the day, expecting the enemy to renew the attack; but they did not come, as they were doing their best to get out of the way about that time.

At night Gen. Sullivan came along the lines of his brigade, and congratulated the men on the success of the day. Riding up to us he said: "Boys, I am proud of you; you have done nobly. The dead in front of your battery shows the work you have done, and I thank God that I have got you in my brigade." The General appeared to be well pleased as he rode off amid the cheers of the boys.

The next morning we learned that Price had been completely routed, and was in full retreat. We started in pursuit, and after going a mile or two stopped several hours. While here, Gen. Hamilton rode up and made the following remarks: "The enemy is completely stampeded. Their

The people of Janesville must not be anxious if they do not hear from us often, for it is impossible to write while on a march.

The Way It Was Done.

Dr. John H. Vivian, a member of the assembly from Iowa county, furnishes the Mineral Point Tribune a minute statement of all the circumstances attending the defeat of the bill providing for the continuance of the state aid to the families of volunteers. Mr. Vivian first notices the action of the senate, and says:

"It was known that the extra demands on the fund entailed by the first of these two bills, would exhaust the fund already provided by the act of the 1st of November. Every one, who knows anything of these matters, knows that the money to be raised by the 'direct tax' would not come into treasury until about the end of February next, and consequently there would be a period between the 1st of November and the first of March, during which there would be no money to meet the demands on the fund. To obtain this, and to ensure the regular payment to the families of the volunteers of the state aid, during the inclement season of the year, a bill which would be most needed, Senator Benn introduced into the senate, a bill to authorize the issue of $275,000 of state bonds. This bill passed the senate, with a proviso attached, that the bonds should not be sold for less than their par value. The vote on it in the senate was yeas 19, nays 7, and 'the yeas' all republicans, the 'nays' all democrats."

This bill was pending in the assembly when the message of Acting-Governor Lewis (which we have heretofore published) was received, on the morning of the adjournment. Mr. Vivian then continues his history:

"On the motion of Mr. Sanborn, (Ilem.) this message was referred to a joint select committee of five. This committee was composed of two republicans, two democrats and one union democrat. They made two reports, the republicans and the union man reporting a compromise bill to raise $150,000 on bonds, to meet the immediate pressing emergency, and $150,000 to be added to the state tax, to carry the fund through the summer months. The two democrats reported a bill to add $250,000 to the state tax only. By the time these reports and bills were drawn up and read, it lacked only ten minutes to the hour of adjournment; so that to get time to consider either bill, it would be necessary to rescind the resolution by which the house agreed to adjourn at 11 o'clock. A resolution for that purpose was therefore introduced, and a motion made to suspend the rules to put it on its passage. The democrats, fully resolved to kill any measure to replenish this fund, moved a 'call of the house.'"

"This consumed some six or seven minutes. On getting up from under the 'call' the rules were suspended. The motion to pass the resolution being put, they called for a division, and when the count was made, the friends of the measure stood up, while the opponents did not; consequently there was no quorum voting. The friends of the bill then demanded the 'yeas and nays,' upon which, all but ten of the democrats took their seats and 'skedaddled' in the lobby, where they remained till the hour of adjournment came, and the speaker declared the house adjourned."

Mr. Vivian notices the excuse that "the reason the democrats voted against the bill to issue bonds, was because the state would suffer a loss of at least 33 per cent on the sale of those bonds," and replies as follows:

"The bill as it passed the senate, provided that the bonds should not be sold at less than par. A few days prior to its introduction Wisconsin bonds had been sold in the New York market at auction for 102 cents on the dollar. The state treasurer had no doubt of his ability to negotiate the new issue, at least at par, as fast as the money would be needed. Where then is the loss of 33 per cent to the state?"

Of the general conduct of the democrats to members, Mr. Vivian says:

"The fact is that everything the democratic party could do, during the entire special session, to embarrass the administration of this state, and fix its hands so that it could give but as little aid to the general government in its efforts to put down the slaveholders' rebellion as might be, was done by them. To this it sacrificed the families of volunteers; and now that they see and feel the odium they have brought upon themselves, they seek to cast it on the republicans by persistency in falsehood."

Think of It.

It is a fact (says the Chicago Journal) for loyal men to ponder, that in the results of northern state and congressional elections, that which pleases and encourages the southern traitors and armed rebels who are undertaking to destroy the republic, the northern opponents of the administration and its war measures rejoice at and jubilate over. To a truly patriotic mind this fact must have an unmistakable significance.

FROM THE FOURTH TO THE TWENTY-FIRST.—Lieut. Col. Hobart left Madison Thursday evening to join the 21st regiment in Kentucky. They are sadly in need of his services now, with their major killed and their colonel so severely wounded as to be unfit for duty, and his experience will be of great value to them.

Col. Hobart reports the 4th regiment as in camp at Carrollton near New Orleans, and in excellent health and spirits. It numbers now about 700 men fit for duty.

Last Night's Report.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 17.

Special to Chicago Journal.—The rebels are retreating towards Cumberland Gap. They destroyed 900 of their wagons, and the bridge across the Kentucky river, east of Harrodsburg. Gilbert's troops moved Wednesday morning to cross the river. A rebel force of infantry and artillery was there to dispute their passage.

LOUISVILLE, Oct. 17.

The Journal denies all reports of recent fighting at Big Hill. One hundred federal cavalry entered and occupied the town of Lexington, to-day.

Bragg on Tuesday with 40,000 men was at Crab Orchard, intending to camp a few miles below. He is rapidly retreating towards Mount Vernon.

Kirby Smith was going out of Kentucky on the road to Manchester, say county, thence by the road whereon Bragg is retreating towards Cumberland Gap. It is reported that the mountain men are falling trees and otherwise blocking up the roads over which the rebels must pass in order to leave the state.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.

Extracts received from other sources show that since the battle of Antietam, there are less indications of Europe than previously to recognize the southern confederacy, and that the result of that engagement, so far as the government of the United States is concerned, has decidedly had a beneficial influence.

Military indications and privately known facts are entirely at variance with the current reports that the army of the Potomac is preparing to go into winter quarters. The department of Tennessee will include Cairo, Fort Henry, Fort Donelson, northern Mississippi, and the portions of Kentucky and Tennessee west of the Tennessee river, and according to the official order just issued, M. J. Gen. Grant is assigned to the command of the department of Tennessee.

Brig. Gen. Rufus King has returned to Washington from his sick leave of absence, and has been ordered to report to General McClellan for duty.

Capt. Wadsworth, additional aid to Gen. Fremont, has been ordered to report for duty to Gen. Reynolds.

To-Day's Report.

(Reported Exclusively for the Daily Gazette.)

MORNING DISPATCHES.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.

In the 5th congressional district M. Russell Thayer is elected by 79 majority. Al so Myers, republican union, is elected in the 3d district. These districts were reported as having elected the democratic candidate.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.

At a meeting of the return judges, to-day, considerable excitement was created by an attempt to prevent counting the votes in the 21 congressional district, but on the issue of a writ of mandamus by Judge Thompson the vote was counted and Leonard Myers, republican, was declared elected by 39 majority.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.

The steamer Saxon, from New Orleans the 4th, via Havana the 10th, arrived here at 1:30 to-night. New Orleans continued healthy. Vera Cruz dates of the 1st mention the arrival of Gen. Fourty with troops from France, and his assumption of command there. The rebel steamer Blanche was chased ashore some six miles from Moro Castle, her crew leaving and setting fire to the vessel. She was totally destroyed with her cargo of cotton.

It was rumored in Havana that the No. 230 and thirteen other rebel war vessels were in the harbor of Mobile. Some anxiety was felt on board the Saxon for the steamer Matanzas, which sailed from New Orleans some days before the Saxon, in company with a Spanish steamer. The latter returned disabled, and nothing has been heard of the Matanzas. She had a number of passengers and a large amount of specie.

PORT MONROE, Oct. 16.

There are rumors of an engagement at Black Water river, beyond Suffolk, on Tuesday, between our troops and the rebels. A lieutenant and three men belonging to the 11th Pennsylvania cavalry were killed. We have no further particulars.

JANESVILLE, Oct. 17.

Gov. Curtin has been authorized to permit drafted militia to become volunteers, changing their time of service from nine months to three years. This will doubtless result in the conversion of many drafted militia into volunteers for three years, and is an important step, as it will probably entitle those who change their term of service to the country to advanced pay, premium, and in fact all the advantages which volunteers have heretofore enjoyed. The draft passed off yesterday in every county of the state, except Philadelphia, and produced, so far as heard from, no undue excitement. Six hundred and ninety men were drafted in this county yesterday.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 17.

In Lancaster county the republican majority is 4,939. In the 14th district Miller, democrat, has 450 majority.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.

Gen. Prentiss, to-night, was complimented with a serenade. He graphically described the scenes through which he and his fellow soldiers had passed at Shiloh. He said he had come to use harsh language when speaking of the demons of the south, whose conduct towards our troops was characterized by murder and barbarity. Col. Johnston, ass't adjutant general to Beauregard, was the only rebel from whom they received the least courtesy. So he said he should never again permit a militia to fall at his hands. The negroes are the best Union men in the south. The returned Shiloh prisoners who had sufficient clothing to completely cover their nakedness do not number 50. Nothing in the way of garments was furnished them by the rebels; besides this they were supplied with the most disgusting food. After fully describing the unkind and offensive treatment they received, he enquired of his many listeners what they now thought of this boasted civility? The people of the south are determined. There is a perfect reign of terror and every sentiment for peace or compromise is instantly stifled. He said he found Union men bearing arms against our government, but they were compelled to do so at the bidding of their masters. The white race, to-day, in the south is in a worse condition than were the blacks before the war. The rebel government has more men and arms than the north think. They fight well. Their cause is desperate. They do not ask for transportation and for comfortable supplies, they are compelled to take the field with or without food. It is time we should go to work without gloves.

We punished them more at Antietam than many have supposed. The prisoners had opportunities of seeing the large numbers of wounded who were carried south on the trains, beside the stragglers. As to the Libby prison, it was a palace compared to the ones in which they were confined. Gen. Prentiss hoped there would be no halting till we crushed the rebellion. Hang the leaders, and grant an amnesty to the deluded victims.

Some one in the crowd enquired what they think of Lincoln's proclamation. Many of the officers with whom he conversed blasphemously condemned it, saying it was damnable and could never be enforced. But he (Prentiss) responded to them, if that you are bound to whip us, what harm can the proclamation of war do? It would declare everywhere that that proclamation would end the rebellion sooner than all the battles fought. He was applauded throughout his remarks.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.

Times special.—Our special correspondent at Harper's Ferry sends the following dispatch: To-day at noon the forces who started from here on a reconnaissance towards Winchester, whom our dispatches had left quietly encamped at Charlestown, returned to Bolivar Heights, the object of the expedition being fully carried out.

Our special correspondence at Sharpsburg sends the following, received from the force which crossed Black Ford, yesterday, on a reconnaissance: Small squads of the enemy were encountered all along the way, but they retreated without offering any serious opposition. The principal force which the enemy opposed to us was two regiments of cavalry and two pieces of artillery. During the advance we had one man killed and three wounded. Four dead rebels were discovered on the way side. The impression prevails that the rebels have evacuated Martinsburg and perhaps the entire section of country in this vicinity. It seems clear that we have not much to fear from any force that the rebels may have posted near the opposite bank of the river. The force sent over Black Ford will return to-night.

Fairfax Court House, Va., Oct. 17.

Gen. Sigel in person headed a reconnoitering party, consisting of a portion of his body guard. He passed to some distance beyond Centerville, and anticipated himself from personal observation of some facts which may have an important bearing upon future operations. There has been no serious apprehension of an attack from the rebels, of whom indeed there are some within 40 miles. Government trains are now running on the railroad to Manassas Junction.

The government is preparing a remonstrance to the rebel military authorities on the subject of their infamous treatment of our prisoners of war.

It is said that the speech made here to night by Gen. Prentiss, receives the sanction of the government, and is to some extent an indication of the views it intends to hold.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.

Herald special.—An impression prevails here that there is some truth in the rumor that while in Maryland the rebel general forwarded to this government overtures of peace which leading southern men believed would be accepted. If such a proposition was made, there is no doubt it has been declined by the federal government.

It is believed at the navy department that several of our gunboats are in pursuit of the rebel steamer Alabama or 290. This vessel has never been in American waters, but only in British waters, or upon the high sea. This fact may lead to redemption by our government upon that of Great Britain for the acts of a vessel that has no other stamp of nationality, other than British.

AFTERNOON DISPATCHES.

We have no report this afternoon.

To the Friends of the Soldiers.

The Hospital Relief Society are to send a box of sanitary stores to Louisville, Ky., next Monday. Any articles designed for this box can be left at the bookstore of O. J. Dearborn, till Monday noon.

There is an urgent call for sanitary stores at that point; the governmental supply comes far short of the need; the Chicago sanitary stores are nearly empty and much must be done by private enterprise, if the sufferings of the brave, self-sacrificing wounded ones are in the slightest degree alleviated. Therefore this society makes another appeal to the citizens of Janesville and vicinity, for help to fill this box. We want, particularly, sheets, pillow-cases and handkerchiefs, as well as shirts, socks, pillows and delicacies.

So frequent are the calls for these articles that the society find it impossible to keep a full supply on hand for these emergencies. Let every housekeeper spare something, and our box will be well filled.

In behalf of the society,
MARIA F. CLARK, Secretary.

Another Declaration.

The following letter is addressed to us by Mr. West, of the town of Union. Republicans like Mr. W. are not seduced from their fidelity or deluded by the arts of an enemy:

EVANSVILLE, Oct. 16, 1862.

Messrs. Editors: I have just learned that at the late so-called union convention, my name was placed upon the county ticket as a candidate for office. Although I am decidedly a Union man, I cannot consent to the use of my name by any party which attempts to defeat so excellent a ticket as was nominated by the republican convention of Sept. 17th. I am heartily in favor of the election of those gentlemen nominated by the republicans, and earnestly request my friends to give that ticket their moral support.

I regard the nomination of I. C. Sloan as one eminently "fit to be made," and the platform he stands upon as the true Union platform.

It would afford me genuine grief to learn that any friends of mine had been so deceived as to sustain any movement in opposition to Mr. Sloan for congress, and the glorious principles of "liberty and union" which he represents.

Very respectfully, JACOB WEST.

"TIMES CHANGE."—Two full Maryland regiments, of 1,000 each, marched over into Virginia a few days ago, singing the John Brown song. They were from near Harper's Ferry. Who would have expected such a result three years since?

The Chicago Times is exceedingly glad at the defeat of several Union members of congress. So are Jeff. Davis and all his rebels.

EXPORT OF SPECIE.—During last week $2,255,513 was exported from New York.

APPOINTMENT OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Winfield Smith, of Milwaukee, has received the appointment of Attorney General of this state, in place of James H. Howe, resigned.

THE ELECTION IN IOWA.—The Mahoneyites did more hard lying and hard-drinking at the polls yesterday than for several years past. They told laboring men that 4,000 niggers were to arrive here this morning that they would be lured by the "Black Irish publicans" instead of white men—that white labor would be reduced to twenty-five cents per day by this nigger competition. They were all lying and bullies. What the result of all this we shall find out when the votes are counted. The prevalent opinion is that the Mahoneyites have earned the election. We shall see.—Burlington Hawk Eye.

Correspondence with Capt. Ely.

The following is the correspondence we alluded to yesterday:

JANESVILLE, Oct. 16, 1862.

CAPT. GEORGE B. ELY.—Dear Sir: Your friends of this city desire to tender their acknowledgments of your patriotic services to the country in a dinner, to be given in your honor, on the evening of Tuesday, the 21st instant, and would respectfully ask your acceptance.

Yours, &c.,

J. J. R. PEASE,
B. L. DIMOCK,
B. B. EBBERTS,
H. E. PATTERSON,
M. C. SMITH,
S. W. SMITH,
H. RICHARDSON,
H. W. COLLINS,
H. W. EBBERTS,
G. S. SPATENBERGER,
L. F. PATTERSON,
B. F. PIERCE.

JANESVILLE, Oct. 17, 1862.

GENTLEMEN: I am receipt of your letter of yesterday, requesting my acceptance of a dinner to be given on the 21st instant, by my friends in this city, as an acknowledgment of what you are pleased to term my "patriotic services to the country."

It is with peculiar pleasure that I accept your kind compliment for I believe that I recognize in it, not only a personal regard for myself, but a remembrance of the brave men who went with me from your midst, and of the cause to which we were devoted. They have wasted away like the dew of the morning, and I have returned, wounded, among you, after an absence of eighteen months, to meet on every side with hearty greetings and kind offices for myself, and warm sympathy for those who have suffered with me in the brave old Second.

Indeed, gentlemen, this kindness heals our wounds and makes us forget our toils, for you cause us to remember that "those who love and serve their country, no matter how feeble their efforts may have been, are sure to receive the thanks and benedictions of its people."

I shall be happy to be with you at the time specified.

Yours, truly,
GEO. B. ELY.

To Messrs. J. J. R. PEASE, B. L. DIMOCK, Wm. H. EBBERTS, and others.

In pursuance of the foregoing correspondence, arrangements have been perfected to have the dinner take place at the Hyatt House, (instead of Woodliff's as we stated yesterday,) on Tuesday, 21st inst., at 7 o'clock P. M., in a style to render the occasion the most agreeable of any similar thing which has occurred in the city. Invitations have been extended to Gov. Salomon and to Mat. H. Carpenter to be present. Tickets may be had at Jackman & Dimock's office, and Tallman & Collins' drug store.

Lost.—On the 17th inst., between the house of L. E. Stone, and Jackman's block, a string of coral beads, with a locket containing miniatures, attached. The finder will confer a favor by leaving it at the Gazette office.

ARLINGTON AND DONKIN'S MINSTRELS.—This celebrated Troupe will perform at Lappin's Hall on Monday and Tuesday evenings, Oct. 21st and 22d, 1862. From our exchanges in Detroit, Chicago and Milwaukee, we expect they are the best band of minstrels that have ever visited our city. They come highly recommended from Milwaukee, and we would advise all our friends who enjoy this style of amusement to pay them a visit. The Milwaukee Sentinel of the 17th says: Arlington, in his "Essence of Old Virginia" and "We all Skedaddled," cannot be equalled. Jones is irresistible in his drolleries; and as on we might specify the excellencies of the whole troupe, but it is unnecessary. Go and see and judge for yourself.—Con.

NEW SONGS.—Drafted in the Army, Our Comrade has Fallen, can be found at Wilson's music store.

FOR THE BATTERY BOYS.—A package will be made up for the 12th Wisconsin battery, on Monday next, at O. J. Dearborn's bookstore, to be sent by express.—Persons desiring to avail themselves of this opportunity are requested to send in their packages as early as possible.

MORE FINE FRUIT.—A. S. Gould, of the town of Milton, has left with us a quantity of very fine apples, the product of his orchard, which will bear comparison with any eastern fruit. He has about 200 bushels, and will sell at reasonable prices.

For the Daily Gazette.

Second Ward Union Democratic Caucus.

This caucus was held pursuant to call, at the engine house, last evening. Present, five Irish democrats, two American ditto, and Col. Martin, the candidate for coroner on the union democratic ticket. Mr. Stoddard called the meeting to order, and assumed to act as chairman. Mr. Leach acted as secretary.

Mr. Rogers, formerly from the first ward, stated to the meeting that he understood that it was the object and design of the democrats of this city to defeat, if possible, A. C. Bates, the present republican nominee, and in view of that fact he moved that every voter present be considered a committee of one for that purpose. Voted down.

Mr. Rogers then moved that Col. Martin act as one of the delegates to the convention on the 18th inst., to nominate a candidate for the assembly.

Col. Martin said he was a republican, and would not accept. Pat Mullen then cried out, "What the devil are ye here for? Put him out," etc. Pat evidently did not understand the "Green platform."

Col. Martin moved that James Hemming, who, he said was an old democrat, act as one of the delegates in his place, which motion prevailed.

Anson Rogers, B. Wheeler, James Hemming and C. Richards were then elected delegates.

Mr. Rogers stated that he was much opposed to the administration; that the constitution had been disregarded, and that men had been imprisoned for very small offences; that he believed in the Ryan democracy, etc.

George Cook, from the third ward, immediately took the floor, and stated that he himself had been imprisoned in the county jail for drinking bad whiskey. He said he did not wake up all the neighbors in the third ward every night when he went home drunk, as Justice Comstock had accused him of doing. He said Comstock sent him to jail sixty days at one time. He believed such conduct on the part of official officers was unwarranted, and he would be damned if he would support anybody.

Col. Martin stated that he was there attending a democratic caucus, the only republican present. He said he was a candidate on the "Green platform." He had been several times "bumbugged" in republican caucuses in this very room. On one occasion, he said, Elder Burnham defrauded him out of the nomination for alderman of the second ward. He now had the Elder tight, and he should certainly beat him for coroner.

The meeting then adjourned.
